After conclusion of the contract, you will provide us with all information necessary for the creation of the website as well as necessary or desired materials (image material, logo, desired domain, auth-code for domain transfer, alternative e-mail for receiving login data of the created e-mail). You are solely responsible and liable for ensuring that the materials provided by you, such as images, maps, logos and texts, have the appropriate rights of use so that these materials may be used for the creation and operation of your website. Insofar as materials such as images and maps are created by us or obtained by us from third-party providers, we are liable for ensuring that the necessary rights of use exist to use these for the creation and operation of the website. In the event of ambiguities in the briefing or pending coordination or delivery of content, RegioHelden GmbH will make suggestions in the form of placeholders, which will be clarified with the customer as part of the draft coordination.

If the creation of editorial texts has been agreed, this will be done according to the specifications individually agreed with you with the aim of presenting the content authentically and convincingly. You must check the content of the texts after they have been created. With the release of the texts you are solely responsible for their content.

Revision rounds, approval of the website design and commissioning

After completion of the website, you as the client must check it and, if it is essentially in accordance with the contract, approve it. The inspection must be carried out within 5 working days of being requested by RegioHelden GmbH. If you do not make any specific correction requests within the deadline, the website created shall be deemed to be in accordance with the contract in terms of content and subject matter and can be activated by RegioHelden GmbH.

One round of revisions is included during the conception phase, further changes can be ordered for an additional charge according to the valid prices. RegioHelden GmbH reserves the right to adjust the planned start date depending on the scope of the correction loops.

With the release of the website design, the website is explicitly accepted (explicit acceptance). This is technically activated for ongoing operation, any access restrictions (e.g. password protection) are removed if necessary and the site is accessible on the Internet at the agreed URL.

If the approval is only deemed to have been granted because you have not checked the website within the set period (fictitious acceptance), the website will also be activated for ongoing operation and therefore be publicly accessible. In this case, the contractual performance period for hosting and services begins at the agreed time and the customer must pay the agreed fee for hosting and services.

Upon acceptance as well as in the case of fictitious acceptance, you as the client are solely responsible for the accuracy and legal correctness of all information and content provided by you as well as the content created by us for you. Excluded from this is the responsibility for the existence of the necessary right of use with regard to external materials provided by us, such as images, videos and maps.

Imprint:

We create your website with an imprint subpage. However, the content of the imprint must be created and kept up to date by you. For this purpose, we will provide you with an input mask after conclusion of the contract, via which the mandatory information to be provided at the time of creation in accordance with § 5 DDG can be inserted. The provision of the input mask does not constitute legal advice. Which of these (and possibly other) details you are required to provide as part of the imprint obligation depends on various factors, such as your legal form, profession and your other commercial communication. We do not provide any advice or check the information in this respect and are not liable for the correctness, completeness and up-to-dateness of the information provided.

Export of the website:

Upon termination of the contract, the customer shall receive a static HTML export as a zip file including the images licensed for the website. Such an export represents the basic structure of a website and must be uploaded to a new hosting provider in order to be publicly accessible again. Changes are then made in the code itself and the contact form must be linked to a new database. Special plugins (additional functions) may result in functional restrictions.

Accessibility

The client is responsible for complying with legal requirements for accessibility - in particular in accordance with the German Accessibility Improvement Act (BFSG). Please check whether your company is subject to the BFSG and whether this results in specific obligations for your website. Please note: You are responsible for the accessibility of the content you provide or exchange yourself - e.g. PDF documents (such as menus), images, video or audio files.
